Amid Beijing Threat, Navy Chief Flags Funds Crunch

New Delhi: Indian warships drove away a Chinese oceanic research vessel indulging in suspicious activity near the strategically-located Andaman and Nicobar archipelago recently, amidst the continuing show-boating by China. New Delhi and Beijing for the same strategic space and influence in the Indian Ocean Region.

"Our stand is that if you have to do anything in our EEZ (exclusive economic zone), you have to notify us first," said Navy chief Admiral Karambir Singh on Tuesday, confirming the Chinese vessel Shui Yan-1 was forced to leave. "It was never invited to visit. It was detected by PSL maritime patrol aircraft a few weeks ago. Chinese warships and research vessels have often been detected indulging in suspected spying activities in the region. EEZs are international waters, but we find Chinese ships engaging in military manoeuvres, we chase them away," said another officer.

A day earlier, marking ahead of the Navy Day on Wednesday said there are seven to eight Chinese warships present in the IOR at any given time. The Chinese Navy is also gearing up for an exercise with its Pakistani counterpart in the north Arabian Sea soon to reaffirm their "all-weather strategic partnership".

India, too, will conduct the "Paschim Lehari" wargames in the Arabian Sea in January-February to "stimulate a conflict over disputed maritime zones and maritime theatre", said the Navy chief. But while Pakistan is wary in the maritime domain, China is in a different league. With an overseas base at Djibouti and naval turnaround facilities at Karachi, the fast-expanding Chinese Navy already has two aircraft carriers (two more are being built), 33 destroyers, 54 frigates, 42 corvettes, 50 diesel-electric and 10 nuclear submarines, among others.

Grappling with a fund crunch, the Indian Navy has just one aircraft carrier, 10 destroyers, 14 frigates, 11 corvettes, and 15 diesel-electric and two nuclear submarines. The force, which has asked for an additional Rs 16,000 crore for capital expenditure in the ong-ing fiscal, may be forced to settle for 175 warships by 2027.

"Navy's share of the defence budget has declined from 18% in 2012 to around 13% in 2018-2020. While we have projected a growth in the defence budget, and are hopeful of getting more money, we remain committed to progress force modernisation using available resources optimally," said Admiral Singh.

New Delhi: Indian boxers have often found themselves at the receiving end of controversial decisions at international tournaments, especially in the last four years when points were declared orally at the end of a bout. The scoring and judging system in international boxing was changed before the 2016 Rio Olympics. Much to the chagrin of fans and the boxing fraternity, the changes did not go well and the IBO, which is the supervisor, should be put in place at the venue.

Judges have been warned they could be removed from managing international tournaments if the new performance was unsatisfactory.

For 2016 onwards, the scoring was done with the traditional 10-point system, where each round was scored by five judges and a computer.

A new scoring system has been set in place for Tokyo 2020, where scores of judges will be taken into account and the system will allow officials to see the reactions of judges during each bout. Judges have also been warned that they could be removed from officiating in international tournaments in the future if their performance is unsatisfactory.

The International Olympic Committee (IOC) has announced that referees and coaches will be strategic in the bout in real time.

Now that a boxer will know what the score is after every round – whether one is ahead or down – he or she will be able to strategize in the bout in real time," Amit told TOI.
